QUINNIPIAC UNIVERSITY POLL

---

FOR RELEASE: APRIL 26, 2013

PENNSYLVANIA VOTERS SAY RUN PITTSBURGH MARATHON, QUINNIPIAC UNIVERSITY POLL FINDS; MANY VOTERS ANGRY AT U.S. SENATE GUN-CONTROL VOTE

Run the Pittsburgh Marathon May 5, Pennsylvania voters say 94 – 5 percent, with voters saying 89 – 5 percent that the marathon will be safe, according to a Quinnipiac University Poll released today. Voters say 88 – 11 percent that if they were planning to run in the Pittsburgh Marathon, or attend it in person, they still would do it.

A total of 36 percent of Pennsylvania voters are “very worried” or “somewhat worried” that they or a family member will become a victim of a terrorist attack, with 64 percent saying they are “not too worried” or “not worried at all,” the independent Quinnipiac (KWIN-uh-pe-ack) University poll finds. A total of 45 percent of women are “very” or “somewhat” worried, compared to 27 percent of men.

Voters say 78 – 20 percent, however, that the Boston Marathon bombing does not make them less likely to attend large events. Large events are generally well-protected, voters say 68 – 27 percent.

Pennsylvania voters approve 59 – 35 percent of the way President Barack Obama is handling terrorism. The only group disapproving is Republicans, 63 – 32 percent.

Gov. Tom Corbett gets a 32 – 18 percent approval rating for his handling of terrorism, with 50 percent undecided.

“Despite the Boston Marathon bombings, Pennsylvanians are not running scared,” said Tim Malloy, assistant director of the Quinnipiac University Polling Institute.

“There is some concern about terrorism, but overwhelmingly voters seem determined that fear will not stop them from enjoying marathons, ball games and other big events.”

Quinnipiac University Poll/April 26, 2013 – page 2

The U.S. Senate vote to reject background checks for people buying guns online or at gun shows leaves 34 percent of voters “angry,” while 36 percent are “dissatisfied.” Only 5 percent are “enthusiastic,” with 22 percent “satisfied.”

Pennsylvania voters approve 34 – 29 percent of the way U.S. Sen. Pat Toomey is handling gun control and give Sen. Toomey an overall 48 – 30 percent approval rating, his highest ever. By a 54 – 12 percent margin, voters think more favorably of Toomey because of his co-sponsorship of legislation to require expanded background checks.

Looking at support for background checks:

- 69 percent of voters “strongly support” the measure;
- 16 percent support it “somewhat;”
- 5 percent are “somewhat opposed;”
- 7 percent are “strongly opposed.”

Voters disagree 68 – 27 percent with the argument that extending background checks unfairly targets gun enthusiasts. Voters do agree 56 – 36 percent that extending background checks would close loopholes for gun buyers who want to avoid such checks.

Pennsylvania voters are divided 45 – 48 percent on whether they approve of the way President Barack Obama is handling gun control and divided 48 – 48 percent on his overall job approval rating.

U.S. Sen. Robert Casey Jr. gets a 48 – 34 percent overall job approval rating, including a split 28 – 29 percent approval for the way he is handling gun-control.

“Pennsylvania voters are dissatisfied, and many are angry, with the U.S. Senate’s failure to act on gun-control,” Malloy said. “By wide, sometimes overwhelming margins, they still want action.

“Republican U.S. Sen. Pat Toomey gains ground with both parties by calling for stiffer background checks for prospective gun owners.”

From April 19 – 24, Quinnipiac University surveyed 1,235 registered voters with a margin of error of +/- 2.8 percentage points. Live interviewers call land lines and cell phones.

The Quinnipiac University Poll, directed by Douglas Schwartz, Ph.D., conducts public opinion surveys in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Florida, Ohio, Virginia and the nation as a public service and for research.
