

FOR RELEASE: SEPTEMBER 15, 2016

BY HUGE MARGIN, AMERICANS SAY CLINTON IS MORE QUALIFIED, QUINNIPIAC UNIVERSITY NATIONAL POLL FINDS,
EXCEPT FOR HONESTY, SHE TOPS TRUMP ON KEY QUALITIES

While the presidential horse race between Democrat Hillary Clinton and Republican Donald Trump remains close, American likely voters say 62 – 38 percent that Clinton is qualified to be president and 61 – 38 percent that Trump is not qualified, according to a Quinnipiac University national poll released today.

But voters say 55 – 43 percent that Clinton is not honest enough to be president, the independent Quinnipiac (KWIN-uh-pe-ack) University Poll finds. Likely voters are divided on Trump as 50 percent say he is honest enough to be president and 48 percent say he is not honest enough.

Clinton tops Trump 48 – 43 percent in a head-to-head matchup. With third party candidates in the race, results are too close to call, with Clinton at 41 percent, Trump at 39 percent, Libertarian Party candidate Gary Johnson at 13 percent and Green Party candidate Jill Stein at 4 percent.

American likely voters say 61 – 35 percent that “the way Donald Trump talks appeals to bigotry.” White voters believe this 56 – 41 percent and non-white voters agree 73 – 19 percent.

And voters say 75 – 20 percent, including 60 – 31 percent among Republicans, that Trump should publicly release his tax returns.

Looking at Clinton, voters say 56 – 42 percent she “does not believe that she has to play by the same rules as everyone else.”

“Despite terrible marks on honesty, despite what voters perceive as a level of arrogance that puts her above the rules, voters say almost 2-1 that Hillary Clinton is qualified to be president, and say by a wide margin that Donald Trump is not qualified,” said Tim Malloy, assistant director of the Quinnipiac University Poll.

American likely voters say 54 – 37 percent that Trump is more transparent than Clinton. Voters give both candidates negative grades for honesty, but Clinton’s are lower, as voters say 65 – 32 percent she is not honest. Trump is not honest, voters say 57 – 40 percent.

Clinton has much better scores than Trump on other key qualities:

- Voters say 68 – 31 percent that she has the right kind of experience to be president and 65 – 34 percent that Trump does not have the experience;
- Voters say 88 – 11 percent that Clinton is intelligent and 69 – 29 percent that Trump is intelligent;
- Clinton cares about average Americans, voters say 53 – 46 percent, while Trump does not, voters say 55 – 44 percent;
- Clinton is level-headed, voters say 63 – 55 percent, but Trump is not, voters say 69 – 27 percent;
- Both candidates get a 76 – 23 percent score for being “a strong person.”

Good leadership skills are most important in a president, 26 percent of voters say, while 20 percent most want a president who cares about average Americans and 16 percent want a president who is honest.

Clinton has good leadership skills, voters say 55 – 43 percent, and so does Trump, voters say 54 – 43 percent.

American likely voters are tied 49 – 49 percent on whether Clinton or Trump would make the right decisions concerning the economy. Clinton would do a better job keeping the U.S. safe from terrorism, 49 percent of voters say, while 47 percent say Trump would do better.

Clinton tops Trump on handling other key issues:

- Voters say 51 – 46 percent that she would do a better job on immigration;
- Voters trust her more than Trump, 52 – 43 percent, to make the right decision about sending U.S. troops overseas;
- Voters trust her more 57 – 39 percent, to handle foreign policy.

“Trump trails Clinton on foreign policy, immigration, experience, intelligence and level headedness, but perhaps most damning, American likely voters say 61 – 35 percent that ‘the way Donald Trump talks appeals to bigotry,’” Malloy said.

From September 8 – 13, Quinnipiac University surveyed 960 likely voters nationwide with a margin of error of +/- 3.2 percentage points. Live interviewers call landlines and cell phones.
