STOP TWEETING, AMERICAN VOTERS TELL TRUMP, QUINNIPIAC UNIVERSITY NATIONAL POLL FINDS; VOTERS ARE OPTIMISTIC ABOUT FOUR YEARS OF TRUMP

President-elect Donald Trump should shut down his personal Twitter account, American voters say 59 – 35 percent, according to a Quinnipiac University national poll released today.

While they have mixed views on his personal qualities, American voters say 59 – 37 percent that they are “optimistic about the next four years with Donald Trump as president,” the independent Quinnipiac (KWIN-uh-pe-ack) University Poll finds.

Trump will be a “great” president, 17 percent of voters say; 32 percent say he will be a “good” president; 17 percent say he will be “not so good” and 26 percent say he will be “bad.”

Trump’s policies will help the nation’s economy, 52 percent of voters say; 31 percent say his policies will hurt the economy and 11 percent say they will make no difference.

His policies will help their personal financial situation, 40 percent of voters say, while 23 percent say they will hurt and 34 percent say his policies will make no difference.

Looking at Trump’s personal qualities, American voters say:

- 52 – 42 percent that he is not honest;
- 56 – 38 percent that he has good leadership skills;
- 51 – 45 percent that he cares about average Americans;
- 57 – 38 percent that he is not level-headed;
- 74 – 23 percent that he is a strong person;
- 74 – 21 percent that he is intelligent.

“Voters tell President-elect Donald Trump, ‘You’ve got the job. Now be a leader not a tweeter,’” said Tim Malloy, assistant director of the Quinnipiac University Poll.

“And we’re watching to make sure you put the country, not the Trump brand, first.”

Only 37 percent of American voters say Trump is a person to whom they can relate, while 61 percent say they can not relate to him.

Quinnipiac University Poll/November 22, 2016 – page 2

Trump will do more to divide the country, 49 percent of voters say, while 47 percent say he will do more to unite the country.

A total of 53 percent of voters are “very concerned” or “somewhat concerned” that Trump would veto a bill that is good for the nation, but bad for his business interests.

Trump’s election makes them feel “less safe,” 39 percent of voters say, while 29 percent feel “more safe” and 32 percent feel “just as safe.”

Looking at expectations under Trump, American voters say:

- 53 – 40 percent that he will take the country in the right direction;
- 50 – 43 percent that he will not bring their healthcare costs down;
- 66 – 28 percent that he will create jobs;
- 45 percent that he will lower their taxes, and 48 percent that he won’t;
- 58 – 37 percent that he will keep the country safe from terrorism;
- 50 – 42 percent that he will not defeat ISIS;
- 74 – 19 percent that he will not get Mexico to pay for a wall along the border.

American voters have mixed feelings about Trump, as 44 percent have a favorable opinion, with 46 percent unfavorable. Vice President-elect Mike Pence does better, with a 42 – 31 percent favorability. First Lady-in-waiting Melania Trump gets a 34 – 23 percent favorability, with 37 percent who don’t know enough about her to form an opinion.

Trump will be a better president than Barack Obama, 41 percent of voters say, while 40 percent say he will be a worse president, and 11 percent say the two will be about the same.

As president, Trump will act better than he did during the campaign, 61 percent of voters say, while 25 percent say he will act the same and 11 percent say he will act worse.

Trump’s behavior since the election has made them feel better about him as president, 36 percent of voters say, while 14 percent feel worse and 50 percent have not changed their opinion.

“The consensus among voters: He won’t get Mexico to pay for the wall and he won’t take out ISIS. He’s not honest, nor is he level-headed,” Malloy said.

“But he’s got strength and leadership. His promise of more jobs and a better economy carry a lot of weight.”

From November 17 – 20, Quinnipiac University surveyed 1,071 voters nationwide with a margin of error of +/- 3 percentage points. Live interviewers call landlines and cell phones.

The Quinnipiac University Poll, directed by Douglas Schwartz, Ph.D., conducts public opinion surveys in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Florida, Ohio, Virginia, Iowa, Colorado, North Carolina, Georgia and the nation as a public service and for research.
